

CREATIVE CIRCLES ACTIVITY

When someone says it's time for a "creative activity," do you find a way to leave the room? Play this game with someone to consider how creativity is part of your life and your community each day.

Use coins as game pieces (one per person). You also will need one die. After you roll the die, move to a circle with that number. The number must be connected with your current place by a line. When you land on a new circle, you must be able to name one place in your community where you can do the activity mentioned or else go back to your previous place. If there is no connecting circle with the number you roll, you lose your turn. First player to the top wins.
